

The proposed ethnic studies curriculum will inflame instead of promoting understanding. The proposed language is too complicated for many students and it is quite slanted. It will not serve its stated purpose - just provide a vehicle for some angry people to express themselves. The students will be the losers. It must undergo major change and include additional groups.

Susan Shershow, LCSW
Retired School Social Worker