SEO, Jae-Pil) arrived in the U.S. in 1885 as a political exile, and became the first Korean to be naturalized as a U.S. citizen. He also became the first Korean American medical doctor as well as an influential political reformer in Korea when he returned home in 1896. He established Korea's first modern newspaper, Tongnip Sinmun (The Independent Newspaper), and also a political organization called Tongnip Hyeop-hoe (The Independent Club). In 1947, he returned to Korea and became a chief advisor to the commanding general of the U.S. Army in South Korea. He died in the U.S. in 1951. - Jim Yong Kim, President of World Bank

Page 40, Line 1634 should include Koreans along Filipinos and Japanese
General	[Amy Choo] [Korea Foundation.]	I noticed Korea Town formation, K-pop culture, handful influential Korean Americans are included in Chapter 2 but I think comprehensive and in-depth Korean American history is lacking in the appendices. Particular attention to Korean American Day (January 13 th) is worthwhile to be mentioned as well.
