"Spill the tea" with us by hearing from the Middle East, learning about Israel, and exploring their tea

Spilling The Tea

Spilling the Tea is an experiential program designed to spotlight the history, stories, and experiences of Sephardic and Mizrahi Jews.

During the program students will host 30 minute Instagram live videos where they will have the opportunity to interview JIMENA members of Sephardic or Mizrahi descent while enjoying special Middle Eastern tea.

Join us LIVE on Instagram on Thursday November 26th, with Justin Feldman member of JIMENA's Young Professionals Board and Community Engagement Manager for the IAC college program, Mishelanu. Justin will share his family story from Morocco and Israel as well as explain how he uses social media to employ his Mizrahi voice.

JIMENA's mission is to achieve universal recognition of the heritage and history of the one million indigenous Jewish refugees from the Middle East and North Africa and their descendants. Our programs aim to ensure that the accurate history of Mizrahi and Sephardic Jews is incorporated into mainstream Jewish and Middle Eastern narratives in order to create balance in attitudes, narratives, discourse, and negotiations about Middle Eastern refugees and the modern Jewish experience.
